

REBELS HOLD CAPITAL AND NEARLY ALL OF MEXICO

Obregon's Forces Said to Be Pursuing President Carranza Between San Marcos and Apizaco; His Chief of Staff and Son-in-Law Reported Executed.

NEW REGIME TO ASK FOR RECOGNITION

Revolutionists, in Control of Capital and All but Four States, Accomplished Their Coup in One Month From April 10.

EL PASO, May 11.—Mexico's newest revolution is in its final stages. The old regime has been overthrown. With the exception of Yucatan, Campeche, Chiapas and Northern Lower California, all of the country is declared by revolutionist leaders to be under control of the new regime.

The forces of Gen. Alvaro Obregon are pursuing President Carranza and his adherents between San Marcos, Puebla and Apizaco, Tlaxcala, according to Equizuel Salcedo, formerly a member of Obregon's staff, who arrived in El Paso today from Agua Prieta.

Execution of Candido Aguilar, son-in-law of the Mexican President, and Gen. Francisco Murguia, is thoroughly confirmed, El Paso rebels say. Statements from revolutionary leaders said the new regime would develop the nation's resources, that lives and property would be protected and that a reform movement would be inaugurated to prohibit gambling and abolish saloons.

Coup Accomplished in Month. The revolutionists accomplished their coup in one month. On April 10 Sonora withdrew from the Carranza Government, setting in force the elements which overthrew Carranza.

Gen. Obregon, leader of the Liberal Constitutional party, escaped from Mexico City at midnight, April 12. He made his way to Iguala, Guerrero, where he joined the forces that took Mexico City, May 7. Chihuahua, the largest State in Mexico, went to the rebels April 26, although Juarez did not fall until May 3.

The revolutionary "plan of Agua Prieta," in which formal war was declared on Carranza and the program of the rebels enunciated was signed and published April 23.

Washington Watching Political Developments in Mexico.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—While advice from Mexico on the revolutionary situation are fragmentary and conflicting, they cast considerable doubt on the reports that President Carranza has been made a prisoner.

A Vera Cruz dispatch from the newspaper El Dictamen, a member of the Associated Press, bearing Monday's date, declared the fugitive President, who was making an effort to reach Vera Cruz, had broken through the revolutionary lines, and was standing at bay with 4000 men at San Marcos, 27 miles north of Puebla.

On the other hand, the revolutionary leaders along the border are still claiming that Carranza has been taken, naming the place of his capture as a point near Apizaco, Hidalgo. These reports, however, give credence to the capture except to declare that the entire convoy has been taken with the President, that three Generals who were with him, Gen. Murguia, Ornelas and Barragan, have been executed, and another General wounded.

It is added that President Carranza has been ordered returned to Mexico City with all consideration, and that none of his party is to be killed or mistreated.

The revolutionary Government will ask for immediate recognition by the American Government.

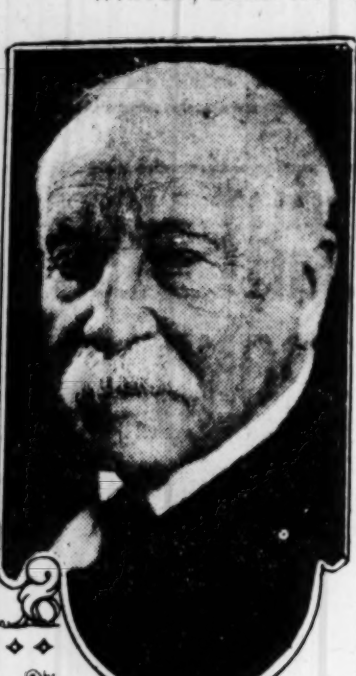

Political Developments. With practically all of Mexico dominated by revolutionists, interest here has shifted from the military phases of the situation to the expected political developments.

Agents of the de facto rulers are taken to believe steps will be taken immediately towards the establishment of a provisional Government to be succeeded as soon as possible by a constitutional regime.

Reports received through official channels as well as those sent to the revolutionary agents continue to indicate absence of serious disorders, although the dispatch of a battleship and additional destroyers to Southern waters suggested the determination of this Government to afford foreigners protection in event of serious trouble at any of the port towns.

Communication between Mexico City and Vera Cruz by land telephone was restored yesterday. A private message received here today from Mexico City via this line and cable said all was quiet in the Mexican capital and that perfect order was being maintained by the revolutionists.

While officials here consider the revolutionary movement as too immature for judgment the impression is manifest that for a time at least it will not have to face the usual counter-revolution. Villa, who defied Carranza so successfully, is reported to have made peace with the winners; Manuel Palafox, ruler of the oil regions, is said to have joined in the movement without reservation, and there remains no outstanding rebellious figure.

Gonzales and Obregon. The possibility, however, that some one of Carranza's loyal officers might fill the role of rebel is suggested, although revolutionary agents asserted its improbability. What appeared for a time to be a potential discord was the recent declaration of Gen. Pablo Gonzales, that while he was fighting Carranza, he had not agreed to support the general revolutionary movement.

Both official and unofficial reports, however, have indicated either an understanding between him and Alvaro Obregon or the domination of Gonzales by Obregon. Gonzales was the first to enter Mexico City, but recent reports pointed out Obregon as the dominant figure.

If the revolutionists carry out their program announced in the "plan of Agua Prieta" no time will be lost in setting up a provisional Government. The promise made in the announcement was that, upon the occupation of Mexico City and the adherence to the revolutionary plan of half the State Governments, Carranza would proceed to the election of a President.

Of the existing organization, Adolfo de la Huerta, Governor of Sonora, is the chief executive, chosen at a meeting of the Sonora frontier as the "provisional" President. His selection was intended, it was explained, as being merely for the purpose of giving the revolution a temporary organization.

Agents of the revolution here expect he would proceed to Mexico City, but in the meantime Obregon appeared to be functioning as a dictator.

through a signed statement by the Mayor and Board of Estimate and Apportionment and the Citizens Supervisory Committee that only a small amount of this work will be contracted for during the next year, such as resurfacing streets and improving Koch Hospital, and that taxes would not be increased to any great extent, if at all, because of this Bond issue, and that labor conditions would not be disturbed until the market is more favorable.

Work Not to Be Rushed. "There has been a few who are not yet convinced. To these we want to give assurance that the passage of this Bond issue means more to St. Louis and its future than any subject has been before St. Louis in its history.

"If St. Louis should fail, by any means, to pass this Bond issue today, it will place us in an unfavorable light throughout the United States that will take us many years to recover from, and in addition it will mean that we will have to pay more taxes immediately to provide money to make certain necessary improvements.

"It is not the intention of the Administration that this Supervisory Committee to spend this money, except emergency, until such time as the money market, the supply of material has improved and there is sufficient labor to do the work.

"To vote 'yes' for the Bond Issue, we must scratch 'No' 18 times. We are urging the public to vote as a unit so that all these improvements may ultimately be brought about.

"Won't you go to the polls today and do something for your city? It will be a splendid investment for you and increase the value of your home.

It will mean that we are ready to show the world that St. Louis is the most progressive city in America. The Bond Issue is going to pass today if those who are in favor of it will go to the polls and vote. Go and vote and take a vote with you."

W. DEAN HOWELLS, NOVELIST, DIES IN NEW YORK AT 83

Succumbs After Return From Wintering at Savannah, Ga., Following Attack of Influenza.

BEGAN CAREER ON FATHER'S NEWSPAPER

Wrote for and Edited Magazines—Was U. S. Consul in Vienna When 24—Was Believer in Socialism.

NEW YORK, May 11.—William Dean Howells, the novelist, died today. He was 83 years old.

Howells returned a few weeks ago from Savannah, where he had spent the winter. While in the South, he was stricken with influenza, and never fully recovered from its effects.

Mr. Howells died shortly after midnight. With him were his daughter, Mildred, and son, William Dean Howells, both of this city. Besides them, he is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Achille Frechette, translator for the Canadian House of Commons, and Miss Aurelia Howells, also of Ottawa, and a brother, S. D. Howells of Washington.

Funeral services will be held at the Church of the Ascension tomorrow at 10 o'clock. The Rev. Percy Stickney Grant officiating. Burial will be in Cambridge, Mass., where much of Mr. Howells' literary work was done.

At a dinner given in New York in 1912 to do honor to William Dean Howells upon his seventy-fifth birthday, William Howard Taft, then President of the United States, lauded the guest as "the greatest living American writer and novelist."

He was the dean of American letters; poet, essayist, dramatist and novelist, as well as a weaver of fiction. Beginning his first book, "Poems of Two Friends," just before the Civil War, Howells had completed and published more than 71 volumes at the time of his death, besides acting as editor of various publications, crossing the ocean 18 times in search of material for his novels, and writing, as a critic, magazine articles.

Was U. S. Consul at Venice at 24. Born in Martin's Ferry, O., March 1, 1837, he served his literary apprenticeship as a compositor, reporter and editor on his father's newspaper.

"Inwardly I was a poet," said the eminent novelist in reviewing his early experiences, "with no wish to be anything else, unless in a moment of careless effusion I might so far forget myself as to be a novelist."

When 23 years old he traveled to Boston to make the acquaintance of Longfellow, Hawthorne, Emerson, Holmes, Lowell, and others. Though a boy among masters, he became their intimate, learning their literary traditions and preserving many of them throughout his long life.

At the age of 24 he was appointed U. S. Consul at Venice, where he combined his consular duties with literary work, and produced his celebrated book, "Venetian Life."

Retired to Write Novels. Four years later, in 1861, he came to New York with his wife, who was Elvira G. Mead of Vermont and whom he had married in Paris in 1862. For two years he wrote editorials for the New York Nation, one of the Tribune, and then moved to Boston, where as assistant editor he began his association with the Atlantic Monthly, succeeding James Russell Lowell as editor in 1877.

At the age of 44 he retired to devote himself to his novels, which he produced for many years at the rate of two a year.

When 50 years old Howells found time to become contributing editor of the Atlantic Monthly, and later of the "Easy Chair" department in Harper's Magazine. For a brief period he acted as editor of the Cosmopolitan.

Dr. Howells had received degrees from Yale, Harvard, Oxford and Columbia Universities, though he had never attended college, was a keen student of current events. He avowed his belief in Socialism.

"I cannot see," he declared, "that the remedy for existing conditions lies anywhere else. But if it is to be a remedy it must come slowly. Violent revolutions do not permanently solve these problems."

On the subject of woman suffrage his opinion was decided. "It is one of the most important developments of this generation and one of the most hopeful. The men have made such a mess of things that women do not come to the rescue. I am sure I don't know what is to become of us."

"Dictatorship of Proletariat" Supporters Fail in Fight to Replace Hillquit's "Lifeless" Program.

RADICAL PLAN CALLED ROAD TO PENITENTIARY

Sovietism Similar to That Practiced in Russia Fought for by Engdahl and Tucker of Chicago.

NEW YORK, May 11.—The Socialist party national convention this afternoon went on record as opposed to the dictatorship of the proletariat, in voting down an international Socialist platform, which was offered by the delegates and which was based on the principles of the dictatorship of the proletariat.

Hillquit Defends Principles. Hillquit gained the floor to oppose the Illinois substitute. He declared the declaration of principles, which was offered by the delegates, was a good thing, but that it was not a good thing to have it adopted as a platform for the party.

Hillquit declared that in his opinion those who opposed his declaration of principles have not read or analyzed it.

Victor L. Berger, unopposed representative in Congress from Milwaukee, under a 20-year sentence for violation of the espionage act, urged adoption of the Hillquit platform unchanged.

He declared that for 40 years the Socialist party had fought for the language of the people of the country could understand.

"I don't believe in any dictatorship," Berger said. "I don't believe in the dictatorship of the proletariat. I believe in the dictatorship of the people."

Declaring for the "red flag of international socialism" in the Socialist party, Hillquit said that the party's ultimate aim in politics is to secure a majority in Congress and in every State Legislature, to win the principal executive and judicial offices, and to control the political party in the country.

When Kruse ridiculed his paragraph as non-Socialist in its "conservatism," Hillquit slammed his fist down on the table and shouted: "Oh, read the whole platform. It is honest. You don't know what it says yet."

Irving F. Weiss, of Buffalo, was hissed by the galleries when he joined with Berger in opposing the principle of the dictatorship of the proletariat.

"I am not in favor of this dictatorship of the proletariat as it is in Russia today," Weiss said. "Conditions in America are different and those who have opposition to the dictatorship of the proletariat are ignorant and don't know what they are doing."

A Drouff of Chicago, denounced Hillquit and Berger as "playing to the gallery" in pre-convention speeches favoring the advent to power of the Russian Soviet Government, but had discarded their "high sounding" talk to become conservatives here.

The convention has set Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock as the time for nominating candidates for President and Vice President of the United States. The delegates are expected to meet at the Chicago Hotel, where they will be housed.

Debs would be the chosen delegate for President. Eastern and Western leaders have agreed upon James H. Doolittle, of Chicago, as candidate for Vice President, but it is not known whether he will accept.

and was dismissed the following day. The Union Electric Light and Power Co. had erroneously been made a party defendant. An amended bill was filed, which withdrew the attacks of attorneys for the United States against the company.

The Adler intervention petition was one of several by bondholders and, in answering it, on April 12, 1919, the company admitted the charge of insolvency, thereby forcing the appointment of a receiver.

Thus the Adler intervention was recognized as a friendly suit brought in the interest of those persons in control of the United Railways.

BURGLARS SURPRISED AT WORK

"Not Enough Passion." "This platform," he said, "lacks a vital element. It hasn't enough passion in it. It omits certain things which are vital issues. The whole tone is rather lifeless. I believe there should be more domestic issues in it."

The declaration of principles of the introduction of a paragraph for first consideration, and Engdahl immediately offered the Illinois substitute. Motion to refer the draft to a committee had been defeated, and the House had begun considering it, as a convention, rather than as a committee of the whole.

The draft of the substitute declaration of principles as offered by Engdahl and the submitting of the Illinois substitute was largely a copy of the national platform preamble which was amended by national referendum last January, except for the addition of a paragraph which stated that all power must be in the hands of the workers in the transitional period, in order to insure the successful overthrow of the capitalist system, and the workers must train themselves now in the problems of control and management of industry.

GONZALES AND OBREGON MEN OF BUSINESS MIND

Both Said to Have a Whole-some Respect for United States and to Desire Good Relations.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Mexico may seem overclouded with gloom, but there is a silver lining beneath. Before many days the situation will have clarified. There will be an interim President named by agreement between Gen. Pablo Gonzales and Alvaro Obregon. The two chiefs of the new revolution, and the program of the United States Government, upon which recognition will be conditioned, will be revealed.

Two factors are necessary to solve Mexico's problem—the adjustment of external relations, particularly with the United States, and satisfaction of internal demands for a Democratic Government, free from the tyrannical and dictatorial abuses of the Carranza regime. Agreement with the United States will not be difficult. Nor will the requests of the United States Government be severe.

Satisfaction of Mexico's various factions depends upon the patriotism of Gen. Gonzales and Gen. Obregon. Both have arrived in Mexico City. Don Pablo, as the former is affectionately called, is a good business man. He has shown once before how to establish order in the Mexican capital. He won confidence and admiration of foreigners generally when he entered Mexico City after Huerta fled.

He deliberately went contrary to Carranza's spurious neutrality program during the war with Germany and came out flatly against the Central Powers. This happened, too, just after the United States entered the war. He was the only pro-Soviet Mexican of prominence in Government circles.

Respect for the U. S. Gen. Obregon also has a whole-some respect for the United States. He has traveled extensively and was impressed with our preparations when the War Department exhibited them to him. He is a business man. He is said to have made a fortune selling "garbanzas" in the export trade.

Therefore Mexico is ruled today by two men of business minds. They understand the language of commerce and should make it possible to do what Carranza has so stubbornly refused to do, namely, make a business agreement with the United States, looking toward the commercial advantages of both countries.

Ever since Carranza came into power, he has been at the mercy of Generals Obregon and Gonzales. So long as they were loyal, the Carranza regime lasted. Both were fond of Carranza. Both expected his support in the race for the presidency. But Carranza went back on both his friends. His attitude in the preliminary elections was so raw that it completely eliminated both Obregon and Gonzales. They saw that Carranza was using the Government machinery for his own purposes and would not permit a fair and free election. So they determined to get rid of him.

Have Working Agreement. And the bloodless revolution is the result of a working agreement between Obregon and Gonzales. The entire Mexican army was devoted either to Gonzales or Obregon, under whom they fought so many battles.

It was easy for the two Generals to take possession of Mexico with a minimum of fighting. Carranza, a civilian, never was held in much esteem by the military.

Both Obregon and Gonzales met in Mexico City before the revolt of last week, dined together at the Chapultepec Inn and came to an agreement, the details of which are expected to be made known at any time. Presumably they have agreed upon an interim president, who will call a constitutional election in which Obregon and Gonzales will have an equal opportunity.

Meanwhile the Washington Government, which has watched Carranza's perplexing experience with Carranza, is rather relieved at his enforced abdication, and is ready to present to the new central authority a program upon which de facto recognition would be extended.

Here it is, first, the appointment of a mixed claims commission to settle all claims pending against the United States in Mexico on the part of nationals of both countries. Carranza appointed a commission of Mexicans and the Department of State advised Americans not to submit their claims to such a tribunal.

2. A pledge guaranteeing protection to the lives and property of American citizens and particularly removing all doubt about vested rights prior to the adoption of the Mexican Constitution of 1919.

3. An understanding concerning the distribution of good water of the Colorado river, which affords 50,000 Americans in the Imperial Valley.

4. An adjustment of the situation created by the expropriation by the Carranza regime of water ways, irrigation projects and other improvements made by the American citizens on Mexican territory.

5. Removal of the decree forbidding Americans to own real estate in the so-called frontier zone, both on the border and along the sea coasts.

There are other matters which will have to be cleared up before recognition will be extended. But both Obregon and Gonzales are men who realize the importance of the moral and even material support of the United States and they may be expected to remove the obstacles that have blocked the way of understanding and friendship between the United States and Mexico. The future may appear uncertain, but it gives ground for optimism.

RAILROAD LABOR HAS CLOSE EYE ON PRIVATE CONTROL

Question of How Grievances Will Be Heard Concerns Unorganized Workers More Than Wages.

By the Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Unorganized labor on the railroads is waiting anxiously to see how it is going to fare now that the roads have been restored to private control. The question of new methods of procedure, contrary to popular impression, is not what wages will be, but whether or not suitable means will be provided for the hearing of grievances.

Time was in the old railroad days, when a foreman could fire a man because he didn't like the cut of his coat or the color of his necktie, and the man had no appeal. Growth of the unions' power cured this condition so far as their own members were concerned, but nonunionized workers, on some roads at least, remained at the mercy of petty officials.

Under Federal control, the Government tried to take care of union and nonunion workers alike, both as regards wages and the hearing of grievances. Three national boards of adjustment were set up and were in constant session at Washington. A policy consistently adhered to, as stated by Director-General Hines in his final report, was that set forth early in the Railroad Administration in Order No. 8, that "no discrimination will be made in the employment of employees because of membership or nonmembership in labor organizations."

All wage increases were made applicable to nonunion workers the same as to unionists. Because of this fact, the complaint was sometimes heard from union workers that by comparison with unorganized labor they were getting the worst of it.

Adjustment Boards Provided.
The Each-Cummins transportation act permits, but does not require, the railroads to create national or local boards of adjustment for the settlement of grievances. Whether the roads will avail themselves of this authority remains to be seen. Unorganized workers hope they will. Railroad executives are divided on the question. Some contend that it is subversive of discipline to permit an employee to appeal from the order of a superior, while others hold that such permission makes for better discipline and better morale. The big unions, through their committees, will be able to take care of themselves; but unorganized workers fear that if they are deprived of the boards to which they became accustomed under Federal control, conditions on some of the roads will lapse into those of the old, unregulated days when the word of a foreman was the ultimate law.

Another thing contributing to the confusion of mind among railroad workers is the uncertainty whether the United States Railroad Labor Board, now just in the experimental stage, will prove adequate to the task set for it—the keeping of industrial peace on the railroads. The law under which the board is created makes no distinction between union and nonunion workers. Any wage order will apply to both classes in a given branch of the service. This means, practically, that all unorganized labor will benefit by wage increases laid down through the union; for there is some union to represent every branch. There is opportunity, too, for unorganized employees to be directly heard, through that provision of the law which permits a hearing on petition of 100 workers.

Inter-Union Fight Complicating.
A factor now complicating the railroad situation is the inter-union fight between the brotherhoods and the so-called "insurgent" switchmen in St. Louis and other cities, who have got out from under the wing of the brotherhoods, formed their own organization, submitted wage demands and gone, as they say, "on vacation." The board thus far has denied the application of the insurgents for a hearing, telling them, in effect, that they cannot come into court till they return to work. It is generally recognized that the granting of a hearing to the switchmen in their present status would be a direct slap at the powerful brotherhoods, the hearing of whose demands is now in progress before the board.

Entirely apart from the question whether railroad labor is adequately paid, it appears on the face of the available evidence that unorganized labor was given quite as much consideration by the Railroad Administration as was organized labor, and that, under the present regime, the machinery is available to produce the same result, in so far as wages are concerned. As already stated, the adjudication of local disputes, such as might arise out of the tyranny of a petty boss, is a different problem, and unless the railroads take the initiative through the establishment of the boards of adjustment, unorganized labor will be at a disadvantage as compared with the highly organized crafts.

Prompted by a letter from "Veritas," a railroad clerk, published in the Post-Dispatch, an inquiry was made of Railroad Administration officials to determine to what extent they had benefited under Federal control. "Veritas" wrote that he received the "magnificent remuneration" of $37.50 a month, and declared there was no way, under the present system, to ameliorate his condition except with the weapon of the strike.

$37.50 a Month Minimum.
The salary of $37.50 a month, officials stated, was the minimum for a clerk fixed by the Railroad Administration; prior to Federal control it was much lower for the same work. This was the answer to the question, "What did the Government do for the railroad workers?" The answer did not, of course, take into account the further question of the adequacy of the $37.50, which is a matter now to be settled by the Railroad Labor Board on the presentation of wage claims in the prescribed way.

Railroad clerks, unlike the employees who make up the big brotherhoods, are organized only "in spots." Nevertheless, it was shown that they received a substantial wage increase under Federal control. For instance, the class listed as "stationary service employees," which included many unorganized clerks, got 48.5 per cent more pay in January, 1920, than they did in December, 1917, the last month prior to the taking over of the roads.

As further showing how railroad employees, union and nonunion alike, benefited under Government control through adoption of the wage recommendations of the Lane commission, the following figures were given for other classes of employees, the percentage being in each class the increased monthly compensation in January, 1920, over December, 1917: Boiler-makers, 39 per cent; electricians, 72.9; telegraphers, telephone and block operators, 67.2; station agents (nontelegraphers), 57.1; road freight conductors, 55.5; road freight brakemen and flagmen, 56.4; road passenger conductors, 52.7; policemen and watchmen, 54.3; clerks (except telegraph clerks), 47.7.

Increase Granted by Government.
These figures are taken at random from the full list of employees of all classes, and fairly represent the increases granted by the Government. In the case of all employees on a daily pay basis, the increase was 41.9 per cent, and of employees on an hourly basis, 48.1 per cent.

That wages were materially increased by the Government is evident; whether they were increased sufficiently to meet the high cost of living is a question now purely academic, since the Government has surrendered control of the roads. The live question is what will happen under private control, and the answer to this will be given, in the first instance, by the nine men composing the Railroad Labor Board, now holding daily sessions on the long-pending demands of the brotherhoods.

LIQUOR $40 AT CONVENTION
Bell Boys' Ring With Supply Fixes Price at Chicago.

CHICAGO.—Visitors to the Republican convention here in June who take a little stimulant with their politics, will pay $40 a quart for the excitant.

The price was announced officially by State Prohibition Enforcement Officer Howard, Howard said an organization of Chicago bell boys who have found ways to traffic in the liquor, had established the price. In stating that he will endeavor to wreck the proposed business, Howard announced a number of Chicago merchants will be prosecuted for selling stills.

CLEAR YOUR COMPLEXION

Of Those Unsightly Skin Blemishes

Use the Guaranteed BLACK and WHITE Beauty Treatment.

Some people dislike to use face powder, cream or rouge, but they cannot suffer the embarrassment of a dark, yellow, blotchy, pimply skin. They therefore depend on powders and rouge to cover up or hide their embarrassing facial blemishes, little realizing that the longer their use is continued, the more aggravated the trouble becomes.

Why don't you clear your complexion, remove those unsightly skin blemishes which so distress you? It's so—no more trouble than applying soft cream or rouge. You cleanse the skin with Black and White Soap just before retiring and then apply Black and White Ointment. In the morning wash off the Ointment. No trouble, and the results are so satisfactory.

Go to your nearest drug store or toilet counter today and get you a package of Black and White Ointment and a bar of Black and White Soap. You can buy both for 50c. Beauty Parlor would charge a hundred times more for the same results. If you cannot find the Ointment and Soap, accept no substitute, but send 50c to the manufacturers for the complete treatment.

NEW BONUS BILL HAS SALES TAX ELIMINATED

Compensation for Home Service Reduced to $1 a Day in New Proposal.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Republican members of the House Ways and Means Committee agreed yesterday to bring in a substitute for the soldier bonus bill with the proposal for a 1 per cent tax on sales eliminated as a means of raising the necessary funds. The tax provisions of the bill would be extended over three years under the agreement.

Under the new bill, compensation for home service is reduced from $1.25 to $1 for each day of service, while payments for foreign service remain at $1.25 a day. Payments would be made for service from April 6, 1917, to July 1, 1919, under the new bill, instead of from April 6, 1917, to Jan. 1, 1920, as under the pending measure.

Payments of the cash bonus would begin April 1, 1921, and be continued in 12 quarterly installments. The four options for the cash bonus, home or farm aid, paid-up insurance and tuition for education, would have a percent increase in value over the cash bonus, under the substitute measure, instead of being determined on a basis of $1.75 a day for each day of service.

The plan of reclamation of land, so as to provide forms was changed in the substitute bill to eliminate the $1000 loan and also to reduce the authorization for carrying out the scheme from $300,000,000 to $250,000,000.

The Republicans estimated that approximately $400,000,000 in the cost of the original measure has been eliminated.

Taxes levied by the bill would become effective next December and would include the increase in income, tobacco and real estate sales exchange transactions.

Chairman Fordney of the committee said last night that the new bill would remove much of the opposition in Republican ranks resulting from the original proposal to raise some of the revenues through a sales tax. The new measure will be offered to the House as a compromise and Fordney said a caucus probably would not be necessary.

Woman, 62, Bride for Third Time.
Mrs. Alice Stevens, 62 years old, of Terre Haute, Ind., and Ferd S. Taylor, 63, a farmer, of Hico, Tex., were married yesterday in East St. Louis by Justice Driscoll. It was the third marriage for each. Taylor said he never has been ill, never chewed or smoked tobacco or drank liquor or coffee.

THREE HOTELS FOR WOMEN BOUGHT BY Y. W. C. A. AND CLUB

Two Under Y. W. C. A. Management to Be Open by Middle of June. After Alterations Have Been Made.

ACCOMMODATIONS FOR 350 IN BUILDINGS

Two Stories to Be Added to Y. W. C. A. Building for Dormitories—Home Rule at Letmar Club.

Three hotels for the housing of young women in industry have been purchased with money raised in the housing campaign recently conducted by the Y. W. C. A. and the Letmar Club, in which approximately $250,000 was pledged. The three hotels will accommodate about 350 women.

Two of these hotels, the Williams, Pendleton avenue and Olive street, and the D'Arles, Enright and Walton avenues, have been taken over by the Y. W. C. A. for approximately $100,000. Almost immediate possession will be obtained, and necessary alterations begun at once. The Y. W. C. A. expects to put them into commission by the middle of June. The Shadel, Lindell boulevard and Boyle avenue, has been bought by the Letmar Club, and will be operated by that organization, distinct from the other two, along similar lines with the present home of the club at 3533 West Pine boulevard.

In addition the Y. W. C. A. expects to add two stories to its building at 1411 Locust street, for dormitory purposes, which will accommodate a considerable number in addition. To Operate Cafeterias. The two hotels of the Y. W. C. A. are to have cafeterias and are expected to pay most of their own expenses. The Williams is to be operated especially for the benefit of transient women, such as business women here on buying trips. The D'Arles is to serve as a clearing house to which girls coming to St. Louis to find employment, may go while finding permanent rooming and boarding places. It is not intended that the D'Arles shall furnish them such a place, but its committees will render them help in finding good homes.

Each hotel will be administered by a committee selected by the directors of the Y. W. C. A. Mrs. Virgil Randolph has been named chairman of the committee to run the D'Arles. The other chairman has not been selected. In addition there will be a house secretary, a woman, for each.

Memorial Rooms Suggested. Directors of the Y. W. C. A. have suggested that persons who wish to aid the housing plan further may do so by furnishing memorial rooms in one or both of these hotels. Further details regarding their administration will be settled at a conference of the Executive Committee of the directors called for Thursday by Mrs. J. J. Fisher, president of the association.

The Shadel, according to officers of the Letmar Club, is to be operated as a girls' home and will be made self-supporting. It will accommodate about 115 girls. The club plans to give the girls at least partial home rule. They are to have their own House Committee, as have the girls at the present home on Pine, which will determine matters of policy and questions of detail, subject to approval by the Letmar directors. The Shadel will have a matron, a housekeeper and others on its permanent staff. Possession of the Shadel will not be given to the Letmar Club for several months under terms of its purchase.

Otis Woolridge, 19 years old, 1421 North Taylor avenue, chauffeur, and John Hornberger, 18, of 4387 Evans avenue, were thrown from the truck and under the wreckage. Hornberger suffered fractured ribs and internal injuries. Woolridge was cut and bruised.

Theodore Albrecht, 15, 2928 Cass avenue, a messenger, fell from his bicycle directly in the path of an automobile driven by Dr. Francis Mahon, 1369 North Grand avenue, when the bicycle wheel caught in the car tracks near Finney avenue at 4 p. m. yesterday.

LOWDEN FORCES WIN IN ILLINOIS BY 1110 TO 631

Mayor Thompson of Chicago Defeated in Contest to Control Convention but Named Delegate at Large.

ACTION ON STATE PLATFORM POSTPONED

Ten Delegates to Chicago Instructed to Vote for Low-den Until Released by the Governor.

By the Associated Press.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 11.—Illinois Republicans in State convention here yesterday elected 10 delegates at large to the National Convention and unanimously adopted resolutions providing that the delegation vote for Gov. Frank O. Low-den of Illinois for the presidency at the Chicago convention, until released from such vote by the Governor. Each of the delegates at large will have four-fifths of a vote.
The convention voted down, 1119
to 631, a platform plank of principles supported by Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago, National committeeman, and decided to postpone action on a platform until after the National convention. The plank had been defeated in the committee on resolutions and was taken to the convention floor in a minority report, upon which debate of one hour and a half was allotted each of the two groups.

Ten Delegates Named.
The delegates-at-large are United States Senator Lawrence J. Sherman and Medill McCormick, Congressman Frank L. Smith of Dwight, Congressman William R. Rostenberg of East St. Louis, Harold Ikes of Chicago, Lieutenant-Governor John Oglesby of Elkhart, Secretary of State Louis L. Emmerson, Mayor
Thompson and Samuel Etteison of Chicago and Fred Upham.
Incidents that appeared on their face to show a lack of harmony occurred repeatedly during the day's session. Pending the report of the Resolutions Committee, when Senator Medill McCormick addressed the convention, the delegates in the left wing and the rear right wing were brought to their feet, cheering madly
when the Senator said:

"Fellow Republicans, whatever your differences might be, see to it that you do one thing, and that is to present a solid front for Frank O. Lowden for President."

Cook Countyans Silent.
The Cook County delegation sat silent while a demonstration broke loose around it. The galleries joined in the cheering, while the band
struck up "The Stars and Stripes Forever" and started a parade around the hall. The different delegations joined in, county by county, with the exception of Cook, and it was not until 10 minutes later that the band switched into the national anthem and the delegates became quiet and later resumed their seats.

Democrats Praise Wilson Administration, Name 8 Delegates.
By the Associated Press.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 11.—
Illinois Democrats in their State Convention yesterday praised the administration of President Wilson, scored the two Illinois Republican senators for obstructing the ratification of the peace treaty, elected delegates and alternate delegates at large to the national convention and adjourned to meet again in September.

The "wet" plank brought to Springfield by former State Representative Anton Germak of Chicago was presented to the Resolutions Committee but did not come to the attention of the convention.
The following were named delegates at large to the San Francisco
Convention: Former Mayor Carter
Harrison of Chicago; former Governor Edward F. Dunne of Chicago; County Clerk Robert O. Switzer of Chicago; John F. O'Malley of Chicago; Frank Quinn of Peoria; Francis S. Peabody of Dupage County; Congressman Henry T. Rainey of Carrollton and Charles Boesch-stein of Edwardsville.

ST. LOUIS PROCESS PROFITABLE TO U. S.

$1,500,000 Paid for Seals That Would Have Brought $35,- 000 Under Old System.

Sale of 6000 seal skins for the account of the United States Government, the first offering at the opening yesterday of the three weeks' fur sale at the International Fur Exchange, was at prices 25 per cent lower than obtained at the February sale, when the high point in the seal industry was reached.

This caused E. F. Sweet, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, representing the Government at the sale, to remark:

"The tendency toward lower prices for the finished seals is, in my opinion, the best thing for the industry in the long run. The prices are very reasonable considering the quality that the American women are going to get in the finished garment. Under the leasing system, which was the method of disposal by the Government up until 1908, the Government received $1 per skin. They were sold raw in the London market. If this year's catch was marketed under that plan, the Government would have obtained $25,000. But under our present plan of having the skins finished in St. Louis by the Funsten method, the Government obtained a net profit on the catch of approximately $1,500,000. The Funsten achievement of making 'wigs' or skins of the older seals, marketable, has increased their value to the Government from about $8 to $125 a skin."

Buyers gathered for the sale declare that any reduction in the prices for fur will be due to a tightening of the money market rather than a lessening of the demand by consumers.

The offering today was 9600 badger, 28,000 house cat, 150 wolverine, 1000 blue fox, 11,000 white fox, 2100 cross fox and 1,200,000 squirrels.

AFRICAN M. E. COMMITTEE TO REPORT ON NEW BISHOPRICS

Recommendations Expected Today or Tomorrow—Pageant at Coliseum Tonight.

The report of the Episcopal Committee, composed of 31 members of the general conference of the African M. E. Church which is in session in the Coliseum, is expected today or tomorrow. Its importance to the conference being the determination of the number of bishops which the conference will be called upon to elect.

It is considered likely that the committee will recommend the creation of three new bishoprics, one in South America. In anticipation of such action more than 50 members of the conference have announced their candidacies. The bishops serve for life and receive $2500 a year during active service and $1800 after retirement.

There also are about 25 candidates for 10 general offices to be filled by the conference.

A pageant of the "first hundred years of the A. M. E. Church" will be presented in the Coliseum tonight under the direction of Principal F. L. Williams and others of the faculty of Sumner High School.

MURDER INDICTMENT AGAINST POLICEMAN WILL BE SOUGHT

Case of Fred P. Wildberger Who Shot Man, Continued Until Thursday.

When the case of Patrolman Fred P. Wildberger, under indictment on a charge of manslaughter, was called in the Circuit Court, yesterday, Assistant Circuit Attorney Lacy, in requesting a continuance, announced that he would seek to have Wildberger indicted on a charge of first degree murder.

Wildberger was indicted in connection with the shooting of Peter Birmingham, July 2, 1919, in an alley near Easton avenue and Sarah street. A witness at the inquest said that Birmingham had taken the policeman's club and hit him on the head with it. It also was said that Wildberger had tried to fire in the air, but that his arm was caught by another man.

The case was continued until Thursday and Lacy said that in the meantime he would produce the testimony of new witnesses for the benefit of the grand jury. The Board of Police Commissioners recently voted to use funds of the Police Department to defend Wildberger.

GLASS CO. CLERK ENDS HIS LIFE WITH POISON

August Schmiedtje Had Been Employed by Busch Concern for 21 Years.

August Schmiedtje of 2561 Texas avenue, ended his life at his home about 3 p. m. yesterday by taking mercury tablets dissolved in water in the bathroom of his home. His mother, who lives at 2337 South Thirteenth street, is the wife of John Schmiedtje, secretary of the Adolphus Busch Glass Manufacturing Co. She was Miss Johanna Busch, a sister of the late Adolphus Busch.

August Schmiedtje had been an employee at the office of the glass manufacturing company 21 years. His wife, Mrs. Bertha Schmiedtje, today said she knew of no reason for his suicide except that he had not been paid for his work. She said he had never risen above the position of clerk and thought he deserved a better place. His salary was $200 a month.

Schmiedtje entered the bathroom of his home yesterday afternoon. He stayed there so long that his wife went to the room to see what detained him. She called but there was no answer. She found the door unlocked and entered. Schmiedtje, still conscious, was on the floor.

Mrs. Schmiedtje today said that just before he died he said to her: "Bert, you have been a hundred per cent wife. You have been good to me, but I can't seem to get things going right."

The wife was a daughter of the late Frederick Buder, a carriage manufacturer. She and Schmiedtje were married at St. Charles, Nov. 29 last.

The funeral will be at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow at the home of Schmiedtje's parents, 2337 South Thirteenth street, with interment in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

ANTI-MARKS FIGHT TO GO INTO AUGUST PRIMARIES

Opponents of Kansas City Republican Machine Likely to Support Hyde for Governor.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 11.—The anti-organization element in Kansas City Republican politics is preparing to carry its fight against the organization into the August primaries in an effort to eliminate Walter R. Dickey, treasurer of the Republican State Committee, and Thomas R. Marks, Kansas City boss.

David M. Proctor, leader of the anti-organization Republicans, today issued a statement denouncing Dickey and Marks and charging that they were wrecking the Republican party in the State.

The Proctor following, which had a contesting delegation in the State convention last week, was ruled out by the convention and the Marks delegation was seated.

"Fourteen years ago, when I came to Kansas City," Proctor said, "Walter R. Dickey was at the head of three institutions, the Dickey Clay Manufacturing Co., the Missouri River Navigation Co. and the Republican party. Last year, in taking a survey of local conditions, political and otherwise, I learned that the Dickey Clay Manufacturing Co. had prospered amazingly, but that the boat line had ceased to exist and the Republican party locally had almost ceased to function."

"These were the conditions when the anti-boss fight, which had for its incentive an unholy alliance between the Democratic machine and a little clique in the Republican party, was launched. This little clique, with their false propaganda, were in evidence in the recent convention, and I might add that a majority of this clique consists of political hybrids and political hearse drivers."

The situation has an important bearing on the McJimsey-Hyde campaign for the Republican nomination for Governor, McJimsey being supported by the organization and Hyde by the anti-boss element led by Proctor.

From Thin to Plump—Girls

The expressions of happiness and gratitude of several of his young lady patients for whom he prescribed the recently successful flesh-forming product, known as three grain hypomucane tablets, is related by a physician in one of the medical publications and it comes as a surprise to the ordinary layman to learn the heart throbs of distress which seem to afflict many young people who are abnormally thin. Also to know that the weight can be so readily increased by the use, regularly for several months, of this peculiarly named preparation, now obtainable of the best apothecary shops in sealed packages with complete instructions for self-administration.

PESKY BED BUGS

Bedbugs lay an average of seven eggs per day. Under favorable conditions they hatch in five days, at which time they are females. They mature in eight days and are capable of laying four weeks. MAJORITY MUST RULE ON TREATY, BRYAN SAYS

Commoner for Ratification at Once With Reservations—Says Wilson Lacks Information.

By the Associated Press

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 11.—President Wilson has been denied information essential to sound judgment and safe leadership, William J. Bryan said here yesterday in a statement on Mr. Wilson's call to the Democratic party to carry the fight for ratification of the treaty of Versailles into the Presidential campaign.

The party fought for ratification without reservations as long as there was hope of such action, he said, and the issue now was "whether the Democratic party believes in the fundamental principle of democracy—namely, the right of the majority to rule." He urged immediate ratification with such amendments as might be necessary to accomplish that purpose in order to take the League of Nations issue "out of the campaign and speak peace to war-distracted Europe."

"He is Without Information," Bryan said. "Broken down in health by the weight of cares and anxieties such as have fallen to no other occupant of that high office, the Chief Executive has been denied the information essential to sound judgment and safe leadership," Bryan said.

Whether the Senate acted wisely or unwisely in the adoption of the reservations, it acted upon a constitutional authority as complete as the authority which the same Constitution confers upon the President, he added, and endorsed reservations by a majority of 18. The 57 Senators—24 Republicans and 23 Democrats—who agreed upon reservations, he continued, constituted more than two-thirds of the 77 Senators who favored ratification, but differed upon reservations.

Urges Ratification at Once. Bryan added that the President asked the Democratic party to make a campaign on the theory that the presumption of wisdom was with 20 Democratic Senators, instead of with the majority of the Senate, or even the majority of the Democrats of the Senate.

SAINT LOUIS, MISSOURI
May 11, 1920

Mr. Employer,
St. Louis, Mo.
Dear Sir:

Believing that many of the men now employed as drivers would welcome the opportunity to become more thoroughly conversant with the operation and maintenance of the motor truck entrusted to their care, the Packard Motor Car Company of Missouri announces, beginning February 1, 1920, the opening of a Drivers' Institute. Its reception by truck drivers in the City of St. Louis was far beyond our expectation.

In the carrying out of the educational program, we thank the various departments of the City of St. Louis, particularly the Department of Streets and Sewers, the Board of Education, the Board of Health, and the Police Department; also the many St. Louis dealers and distributors of other motor trucks, who gave so freely of their time and equipment in making the course of the maximum benefit to the many students who took advantage of the opportunity.

Believing that you as an employer appreciate more than ever the importance of a more perfect understanding between employer and employee and the value of having trained men in your organization, it is our pleasure to give you the privilege of recognizing by your presence your appreciation of that spirit which has dominated these students in making themselves, for you, better employees.

If you are not able to come yourself, we respectfully suggest your appointing some one from your organization to be present at the graduating exercises, which I believe will be of educational value to all who attend.

The exercises will be opened by Mayor Kiel, followed by musical numbers from the Central High School Orchestra, the awarding of diplomas, and a pictorial history of the evolution of transportation.

The students will be glad to welcome you at 2201 Locust Street, Wednesday, May 12th, at 8:00 P. M.

Very sincerely,

By the Associated Press.
SEATTLE, Wash., May 11.—The Rev. A. R. Hoare, Episcopal missionary at Point Hope, Alaska, 175 miles north of Nome, was shot and killed April 27 by James Mc-Guire, 18, his assistant, according to radio advices received here yesterday.

McGuire's father, James McGuire Sr., chief of the Northwest Alaska District of the Bureau of Education, placed his son under arrest and started with him for Candle, 150 miles south, where a Deputy Marshal has offices. Young McGuire is believed to have been insane, the dispatch said.

CASHIER IN DOWNTOWN OFFICE ROBBED OF $289

Three Men Hold Up Girl on Sixth Floor of Building at 803 Washington.

Three young men carrying revolvers entered the office of the Imperial Belt Manufacturing Co., on the sixth floor of the Well Building, 803 Washington avenue, at 4:30 p. m., yesterday, and held up the cashier, Miss Pauline Cornwall, 4403 Washington boulevard. They took from her cage $289, part of a weekly payroll account, which she was placing in envelopes.

One of the men wore a handkerchief over the lower part of his face but Miss Cornwall told the police that she recognized him as a man that she had seen in the neighborhood of Eighth street and Washington avenue on several occasions.

George Franklin, 16, of 2610 Mills street, a negro, who was in charge of the passenger elevator in the building, told the police that the men spent considerable time in the first floor corridor of the building before they entered the elevator and directed him to take them to the sixth floor.

When the sixth floor was reached Franklin said the men drew revolvers and ordered him to accompany them. They forced him to lead them into the office, and on the way one robber adjusted the handkerchief to his face.

Miss Cornwall, the only person in the office at the time, was in the cashier's cage. The man whose face was masked ordered her to hold up her hands, while his companions gathered up the envelopes containing the money. They then backed out and ordered the elevator operator to take them to the first floor.

Franklin said that after the robbers had departed he was summoned to the third floor to take down several passengers and that when he again reached the first floor the robbers had disappeared.

Miss Cornwall told the police that the robbers did not attempt to open the drawer of her desk, which contained a larger sum than they obtained.

SUGAR BROKER SUES CAFE OWNER FOR $100,000 DAMAGES

Alleges Accusation of Charging Unreasonable Price Cut Income From $500 to $75.

Frank C. Martin, 4001 Cote Brilliante avenue, a sugar broker, in a suit for $100,000 damages filed in the Circuit Court today against George Georges, proprietor of the Standard Catering Co., alleges that an accusation that he charged an unreasonable price for sugar so injured him in his business that his income has been reduced from $500 a month and commissions to $75 a month.

Martin alleges that Georges caused a Federal warrant to be issued against him on a charge that he made an unreasonable price on 10 100-pound sacks of sugar. After the warrant was issued Nov. 22, 1919, he asserts, he was arrested and imprisoned for one hour before giving $5000 bond. He was acquitted Jan. 10 last at a preliminary hearing before a United States Commissioner.

At the time the warrant was issued, United States Commissioner Mitchell said he had been informed that Martin sold the sugar to Georges at 22½ cents a pound and refused to give a receipted bill. It was alleged by Georges that he had information that the sugar was California beet sugar for which the refineries at that time were permitted to charge not more than 10½ cents a pound.

After the preliminary hearing it was said the evidence was not sufficient to order Martin held for the grand jury. He asks for $50,000 actual and $50,000 punitive damages.

CHAUFFEUR WHO RAN DOWN MAN CHARGED WITH CARELESSNESS

A Coroner's verdict of criminal carelessness was returned today in the case of Egbert Norton, 5084 Kensington avenue, a chauffeur, who was driving the automobile of Mrs. Walter Scott, 4450 Westminster place, when it struck and killed Henry Luedeman, 60 years old, a carpenter, at 1:20 p. m. yesterday at Compton avenue and Locust street. He was held for the grand jury and gave $2500 bond.

One witness estimated the speed of the car at 25 miles an hour. Another said the speed was 20 miles an hour.

Testimony showed that Luedeman was crossing from the north to the south side of Locust, on the regular crossing. Several cars were parked along the north curb, and Luedeman stepped from in front of one of them, as Norton told the police when arrested. Norton said that he was driving about 15 feet behind another automobile also proceeding west in Locust street. He said he was driving at a moderate speed. By advice of counsel, Norton declined to make a statement at the inquest.

Luedeman was identified last night as a carpenter employed by the Stiers Construction Co., 4343 Page boulevard. It was ascertained that until recently he lived at 3707 North Twenty-fifth street, but his latest address was not learned. His wife, Anna, lives in Rochester, N. Y.

Italdin Wine Maker Fined $25.

BOY'S STATEMENTS IN MEYERS CASE ADMITTED

Van Dyck Lad's Declarations to Father of Mistreatment Accepted as Evidence.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
MONTGOMERY CITY, Mo., May 11.—Statements made by Raymond van Dyck to his father, James A. van Dyck, on Feb. 10 at the city hospital, 12 days before he died from alleged mistreatment and neglect at the hands of Guss Meyers on his Montgomery County farm, were admitted in evidence today at the trial of Meyers, charged with responsibility for the boy's death.

Van Dyck testified that Raymond was "skin and bones" but that his mentality was not impaired. The boy told him, he testified, that he was not given enough to eat and that he broke his teeth trying to eat horse corn.

He described the boy's scars and sores and said that one of his arms seemed to have been broken. On cross-examination he admitted that he testified at the inquest that the arm seemed to have been sprained.

Father's Testimony Yesterday.
Testimony in the case of Meyers, who now lives in St. Louis, began late yesterday afternoon. The jury was impaneled quickly. The chief witness of the afternoon was James A. Van Dyck of 2323 Franklin avenue, St. Louis, who repeated substantially his statement made to a Post-Dispatch reporter Feb. 23 last. He told how the boy's mother had died three years ago, and of the necessity he felt to place Raymond in a woman's care.

Witnesses Excluded.
Meyers, he said, answered an advertisement for a home for the boy. Van Dyck told of an agreement with Meyers to feed, clothe and educate Raymond as he would his own son, and said that a letter written by Meyers on Jan. 26, telling of the plan to send Raymond to St. Louis on Feb. 7 was lost and not found until Feb. 15. Raymond was sent to St. Louis on Feb. 7, and taken to the city hospital, where he died Feb. 22.

The information against Meyers' alleged neglect of Raymond and assaults upon him on Dec. 1 and on other days until Feb. 7. Dr. R. W. Klippel of the staff of the St. Louis Coroner testified that in a post mortem examination of the boy's left wrist was found to be broken and many lacerations and contusions were found on his body. He said he could not determine the cause of these injuries. He and Van Dyck were the only witnesses of the afternoon.

At the request of Meyers, all witnesses in the case have been excluded from the court room. Meyers was accompanied at the counsel table by his wife.

Nearly 200 persons attended the opening session of the case, including 30 boy and girl members of the Montgomery high school civics class.

The defense attacked the information against Meyers by demurring to the constitutionality of the statute covering mistreatment of children. Probate Judge Rosenberger of counsel for the defense opened the case by withdrawing Meyers' plea of not guilty made at his arraignment April 27. The demurrer was not sustained and the plea was re-entered.

Meyers said last night that he had moved to St. Louis when he was released on bond early in April. He gave up farming, which he said he had not found profitable, and has been working at his old trade of stationary engineer. He lives now at 2600 South Jefferson avenue. He moved to the country more than a year ago. His bond of $1500 was signed by John Collins, a St. Louis undertaker.

WOMAN KILLS STEPFATHER WHO FORCED ATTENTIONS UPON HER
Shoots Him When He Hurries From House After Struggle With Her Husband.

By the Associated Press.
CAIRO, Ill., May 11.—Mrs. Thomas Yoch, 27 years old, and mother of four children, yesterday shot and killed her stepfather, John Lilley, 33, because, she asserted, he insisted on forcing his attentions upon her. The shooting occurred at the Yoch home, about three miles west of here. Mrs. Yoch surrendered to the Sheriff.

A coroner's jury last night exonerated her, and she was released. Mrs. Yoch, according to officials, declared Lilley had been visiting and insulting her for more than a year, but that she had refrained from telling her husband because she did not want to create trouble.

Recently, she is said to have declared, her stepfather's advances had become extremely repulsive, and that fearing a visit from him yesterday, she related the affair to her husband and asked him to remain at home with her.

Yoch remained home and when Lilley appeared an encounter resulted, it was explained. Mrs. Yoch related that Lilley hurried from the house after her husband had wrested a sickle from him, and fearing Lilley was going after a weapon, she obtained a revolver and fired four shots at him. One of the bullets pierced his heart. The Yoch children range in age from 6 months to 11 years.

DRAMA REARRANGED BY ZOE AKINS PRESENTED

Worked Over "Forget-Me-Not"
Produced With All-Star
Cast.

Special to the Post-Dispatch—
NEW YORK, May 11.—So many years have passed since Rose Coglan or Jeffries Lewis last acted Stephanie Mohrhuart in New York, that Herman Merivale's and F. C.
Groves' old "Forget-Me-Not" which,
during the '80s and '90s, was the means of the brilliant French adventurer's almost constant depre-dation, is almost unknown to the casual playgoer of today. Which may explain the genuine interest manifested in it last night when,
slightly rearranged by Zoe Akins and designated "Foot-Loose," it was reproduced at the Greenwich Village Theatre as an infallible harbinger of the new approach of the season's end.

The change in the new cast were also a symptom that the last gasp of the season is near. If not all-star, it made at least a gesture in that direction. There were Emily Stevens as the despotic Marquise, Norman Trevor as the blunt, honest,
expedient English baronet, O. P.
Heggie as the soft-spoken, reticent, revengeful Corsican; Robert Cosade-sus as the voluble Italian Prince; Elizabeth Riedon as the bullied
Alice Verney; Hallulah Webster and Lillian Bernard—a good, serviceable cast, if not exactly ideal.

The Play's Story.
The notation of these characters
may serve to recall the story.
Stephanie, with a disreputable career behind her, descends upon Alice Verney's home to blackmail her way into the English matron's exclusive set. Here, fortuitously for Alice, she encounters Sir Horace Welby. An episode in Paris which resulted in the murder of the adventurer's gambler husband is the end of their theatrical tete-a-tete in the play's third act. Stephanie ushers herself out in abject terror. She had intended to stay six weeks at the Verneys'. She actually remained only two days.

Miss Akins' addition of telephones, motor cars and other rejuvenating details to the old play did not make it better or worse. It has still theatrical effectiveness. It has fairly crackle emotionally. But, like most of the popular plays of its day that have survived, it is woefully transparent in the light of the super-technique of our present dramatists.

Lead Badly Interpreted.
Emily Stevens played the ruthless, implacable Stephanie with cold glitter. She was as hard as nails, which is as should be. The best scenes in the drama are Stephanie's battle of wits with the deliberate and dispassionate baronet. She is described as a superb creature of superficial allurements, a perfect tactful. Miss Stevens portrayed her as a venomous, ill-bred unalluring cat, a vampire who might deceive only the most unsophisticated. The play lost some, but not all, of its subtle interest by this quite tactless handling of the role. But if you could accept Miss Stevens' idea of the character you would have pronounced her performance undeniably fine.

Trevor's Sir Horace was, however, artistically much finer. We now have no actor to match him in roles of polished, resourceful, determined men of the world. He gave just the right suggestion of quiet, unvarying vigor last night to every scene in which he appeared.

Heggie, too, gave an admirable
performance in the character role of the Corsican—a small role that loomed large because of the menace that lurked beneath Barroto's hesitant words. Miss Bankhead suggested well the terror of the strung and sickly young widow. The other parts were competently played. But the theater has progressed since the triumphant day of "Forget-me-not"—the day of the ascendancy of sentimentalism, first of the long line of Stephanie's.

DIVORCE SUIT DISMISSED
Woman Accused Husband of Being
Pro-German in Views.
The divorce suit of Mrs. Birdie
Ascher of 5593A Etzel avenue,
against Henry Ascher, was dismissed yesterday by Judge Davis, who also dismissed the defendant's cross bill.
Mrs. Ascher alleged that she taunted her with statements that she was not his legal wife and that he criticized her because she did not agree with his pro-German views.

Ascher denied her allegation that he was pro-German but admitted that he charged she was not his legal wife. In the crossbill he asked that the marriage be annulled.
The wedding took place in October, 1911, at Belleville, less than a year from the time the plaintiff had been divorced from Sam Schuatz.
Ascher alleged that under the laws of Wisconsin and Illinois no divorces can lawfully remarry within a year from the date of obtaining a divorce. Judge Davis decided the case without commenting on the technicality raised by the defendant.

U. S. IS WATCHING GERMANY'S FAILURE TO DISARM TROOPS

Government Has Eye on Situation Unofficially, Not Being Represented on Control Commissions.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Despite absence of American representatives on the inter-allied control commissions to supervise the fulfillment of the disarmament clauses of the treaty, the United States Government is watching the situation unofficially from the American point of view of the German compliance with the disarmament clauses of the treaty, which is to form an important subject of the Spa conference, May 25, is summarized as follows:

"The most noteworthy lack of compliance with the disarmament provisions attracting attention here is the failure to reduce German military effectives. Although pledged to reduce her regular army to 200,000 by April 10, 1920, and to 100,000 by July 10, the regular army remains approximately 250,000, according to what is regarded as a conservative estimate. This is in contrast, however, with an 800,000 pre-war peace establishment and an army of 5,000,000 at the time of the armistice.

Have Reserve Armed Forces.

The State Constabulary, of 75,000 to 150,000, and approximately 600,000 home guards are regarded as a violation of the treaty provision forbidding any reserve or secret armed forces. The German claim that these forces are necessary for maintenance of internal order is considered here as refuted by the failure of those forces to cope with the recent red uprisings. It is thought probable that demobilization of these reserves will be proposed by Germany as a bargain for the continued maintenance of a regular army of 200,000 after July 10.

Although in compliance with the treaty, the German General Staff ostensibly has been abolished, reports here say the nucleus of a general staff continues to be maintained. In certain cases, it is reported, General Staff officers are continuing as civilians at the Foreign Office to pursue their previous staff duties.

Have Not Destroyed Guns.

Of the guns and ammunition Germany agreed to destroy by March 10, 1920, it is estimated that up to Jan. 5, 1920, about one-quarter of the amount had been disposed of. In a report to the Inter-Allied Military Commission of Control in Berlin Jan. 5, the German Government announced stocks of munitions remaining in Germany as follows:

Twelve thousand field pieces, 2500 heavy pieces, 3500 flame-throwers, 20,000 machine guns, and 454,000 small arms. Their location was verified. Notice also was given by the Germans of their intention eventually to destroy them.

At Spa, it is understood, it will be decided whether these munitions shall be taken over by the allies or whether Germany will be permitted to destroy them. Prohibition of the exportation of munitions by Germany, it is reported here, has been violated from time to time since November, 1919, in contraband shipments.

So far as is known here, secrets in the manufacture of gas and other munitions which Germany agreed to disclose to the allies before April 10, have not been divulged.

U. S. SEIZURE OF ISLAND

Parliament Member Calls Attention to U. S. Plan to Fortify Taboga, Panama Territory.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 11.—Maj. Christian Mather, coalition Unionist, asked in the House of Commons yesterday whether the Government's attention had been called to the report that the United States had seized the island of Taboga, which is the property of Panama, for the purpose of erecting fortifications and whether in view of Great Britain's desire to protect the rights of small nationalities, a protest would be made to the United States and, further, whether the matter could be referred to the League of Nations.

Cecil Harmsworth, Under-Secretary of Foreign Affairs, in reply, described the proposal of the United States in 1918 to erect fences for the purpose of protecting the entrance to the canal and America's later decision to postpone action. Harmsworth added that it did not appear to be a matter in which the British Government was called upon to intervene.

Go to a Legitimate Dealer and Get a Legitimate Tire

Every time you drive your car along a track or a rut in a country road you are taking some life out of your tires.

Worn frogs and swatches often cause small cuts, which are rapidly enlarged by the action of gravel and moisture. Ruts and track slots pinch the tire, wearing away the tread where their edges strike it.

It is well to avoid such places as much as possible.

THIS year the American people are going to be more critical than ever about their automobile tires.

Tires are one of the largest items in the motorist's budget. The cost is making even careless buyers think and inquire.

And the more they inquire, the smaller will grow the influence of hearsay and the irresponsible tire dealer.

We have all met the man who takes his opinions ready-made.

He tells everything he knows. He knows more about every car than the man who made it, where to buy the cheapest truck—how to get the biggest bargain in tires.

He always arouses a certain amount of wonder in the unknown. They never think to ask him where he gets his secrets.

"Somebody says" and "everybody does" are responsible for more wrong impressions about tires than anything else you can think of.

It is on the people who come under the influences of these phrases that the irresponsible dealer thrives.

You generally find him with the name of a standard tire displayed in his windows to give an impression of quality.

But when you get inside the first thing he begins to talk about is price and substitution.

ROYAL CORD-NOBBY-CHAIN-USCO-PLAIN

What the thoughtful motorist is looking for today is better tires.

He goes to a legitimate dealer and gets a legitimate tire.

The quality idea—the idea of a quality tire, of a dealer who believes in quality—is commanding a greater respect from a larger portion of the motoring public all the time.

It is the idea on which the United States Rubber Company was founded—on which it has staked a greater investment than any other rubber organization in the world.

Build a tire that will do more, a better tire than was built before, and you are sure of a large and loyal following.

We have never been able to build enough U. S. Tires to go around.

Mysterious Sea Monster, Biggest Fish in History, at Foot of Olive Street

Creature Which Has Baffled Scientific Authorities Viewed by Thousands—Sea Cow and Hundreds of Deep Sea Wonders Shown.

The mysterious deep sea monster, which has baffled scientific authorities of two continents, has arrived in St. Louis and is being exhibited to thousands of persons at the foot of Olive street, where it is housed in the palatial sea-going yacht Tamiami. The monster, which is neither whale nor shark, is 42 feet long, weighs 30,000 pounds when captured, and its tail measures ten feet across. It was captured off Key West after a battle which lasted 39 hours.

Capt. Charles H. Thompson, of Miami, nationally known as a sportsman, captured the giant deep sea creature. In the battle a boat was smashed into a thousand pieces, and it was necessary to fire 150 large caliber rifle bullets and use five harpoons to land the monster. As soon as it was hauled ashore Capt. Thompson sent for a representative of the Smithsonian Institution. This representative, and other leading scientific authorities, were unable to class the monster. There is no record of him in history.

Scientific authorities believe that the creature was an inhabitant of depths more than 1500 feet below the surface, and that it was blown up by some submarine or volcanic upheaval, which injured its diving apparatus so that it was unable to return to its native depths.

Its liver alone weighed 1700 pounds, or more than ten full-grown men put together. It is 23 feet around the body, and its tail measures ten feet from tip to tip.

It had swallowed an octopus weighing 400 pounds, which was still alive in the stomach when caught. A weighing 1500 pounds, and 200 pounds of coral were also found in the stomach. It could have swallowed 50 pounds without suffering the slightest pang of indigestion.

The hide is three inches thick, and enabled it to withstand the most enormous water pressure, a pressure almost inconceivable to man. Its eyes, which are very small, have no lids and were never closed, indicating that it lived at a depth where eyes were of no avail.

Although the largest fish ever captured, scientists claim it was only a baby of its tribe, and if it had lived to attain full growth it would have been two and one-half times as large. In addition, Capt. Thompson has a 2000-pound sea cow or Manatee on his palatial yacht. This rare species is kept in a huge tank filled with water. It has been trained to answer to the name of Rosie and came out of the hand of its owner. There also are more than 500 other marvels of the deep sea exhibited on the yacht Tamiami at the foot of Olive street.

The marvels include a 15-foot Green-tail, 14-foot Man-Rating Shark, 300-pound Sea Turtle, 120-pound Tarpon, 7-foot Haracad, 7-foot Sailfish, Trigger Fish, Squirrel Fish, Angel Fish, Dolphin, Octopus, Alligator-Gar, Green Hill Catfish, Frogfish, Herring Hog, Sea Horse, and many other interesting specimens of Deep Sea Life.

Visitors will be shown the deep sea mystery, the sea cow and the other wonders from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m. each day, except Sunday. The yacht Tamiami at the foot of Olive street, and the foot of Olive street, will be lighted for the convenience of visitors after dark. ADVERTISEMENT.

Seen under a powerful magnifying glass an unstropped razor blade looks like a saw edge

Stropping keeps the tiny teeth of the blade in perfect alignment—provides a smooth, keen edge for every shave

A safety razor and stropping device combined in one

YOUR own particular shaving difficulty—doesn't it really revert to a dulling razor blade?

That annoying pull when the razor fails to cut cleanly—the painful scraping that often results when you bear down too hard—the bother and expense of putting in a new blade every so often—all these troubles can be traced directly to a razor blade that has lost its first keen edge.

No shaving edge can keep its original keenness for more than a few shaves—not without stropping.

Stropping—that's the real secret of shaving comfort!

Look at a razor edge under a microscope and you will see hundreds of tiny saw teeth. More than 1500 of these teeth have been counted on an ordinary safety razor blade. Shaving bends these saw teeth out of line, makes them irregular. These irregular teeth catch in the beard, pull the tiny hair follicles and scrape the skin. That's what usually makes shaving so unpleasant, so annoying.

You don't need to put up with the discomfort of fast dulling blades—nor with the bother and expense of putting in a blade every so often. You can insure a fresh, keen edge for every shave if you use the AutoStrop Razor.

Like the leaf of a book

The AutoStrop Razor blade opens for cleaning like the leaf of a book. To clean, simply rinse and dry. No parts to unscrew—nothing to take apart and reassemble. The same lever that releases the blade adjusts it for close or medium shaving.

You can shave in 3 minutes

In 10 seconds you can renew the fine, keen edge of the AutoStrop Razor blade. It takes less than half a minute to dry the razor after using. With the AutoStrop Razor you can get a complete shave—cool and comfortable—all in 3 minutes' time.

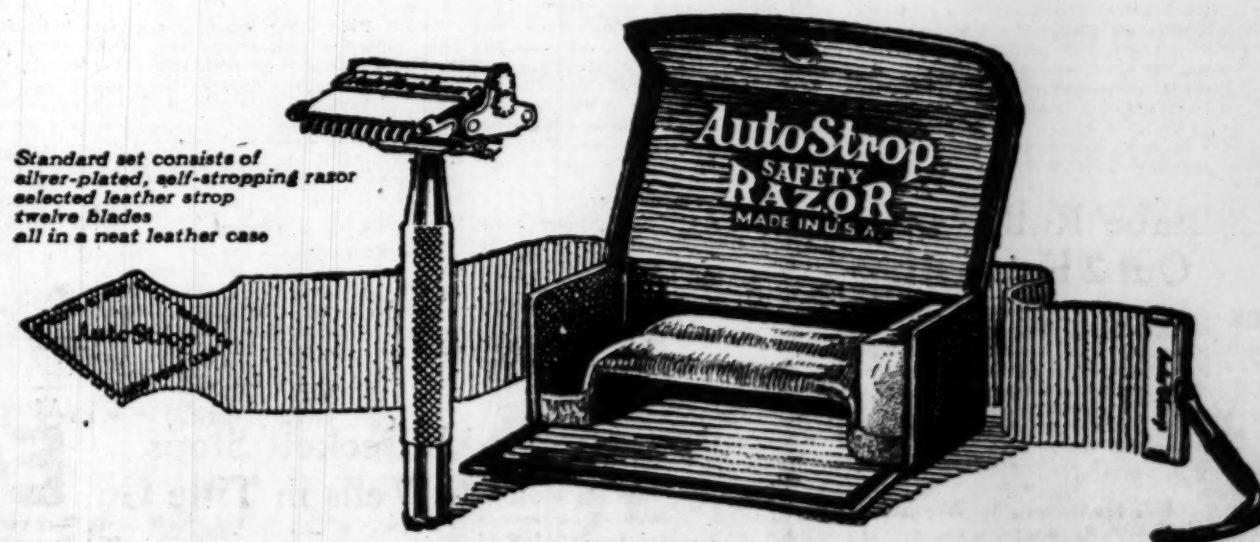

A new, sharp, shaving edge every day

Built right into the frame of the AutoStrop Razor is a remarkable self-stropping device—simple and efficient—which renews the fine, keen edge of the AutoStrop blade day after day.

You don't have to take the razor apart nor even remove the blade. Just slip the strop through the razor head, and move the razor back and forth along the strop. In 10 seconds you have a new, sharp, shaving edge. 500 cool, comfortable shaves are guaranteed from every dozen AutoStrop blades.

Don't put up any longer with the pull and scrape of unstropped blades. Begin tomorrow to get the comfort of a "new," sharp, shaving edge every morning. Ask your dealer about the AutoStrop Razor free trial plan.

Standard set consists of silver-plated, self-stropping razor selected leather strop twelve blades all in a neat leather case

Sooners' Winning Streak Halted by Piker Net Team

Haase and Brown Easily Defeat Conquerors of Four Varsity Tennis Rivals.

Washington University was successful in its first bid for the Western collegiate tennis championship, when it gained a victory over the University of Oklahoma players in a dual meeting on the Triple A courts yesterday afternoon. The local players won two matches to one, taking both singles and losing the doubles.

The Oklahomans came to this city after a successful tour, on which they defeated teams representing Wisconsin, Northwestern, Kansas and Drake universities. A two-day stand was made with the University of Chicago squad, each team taking three matches. The Sooners left last night for the University of Arkansas, where they will complete their tour. The singles victories came so easily that Walter Haase and Wayne Brown, the Pikerway team, granted their alternates, Val Satterfield and Octavius Mendez, the privilege of playing against the Sooners in the two-man event. The victors took this match, 7-5, 6-1. Haase had previously defeated Forrest Darrrough, 6-0, 6-2, and Brown won from Claude Monnett, 6-0, 6-1.

'Babe' Ruth Raps Out 2 Home Runs

NEW YORK, May 11.—In his first three times at bat in the Chicago-New York game here today, "Babe" Ruth made two home runs and a triple. The first home run and triple came off Wilkinson and the other homer off Kerr. Ruth has four circuit wallows for the season.

Bill Hammann Is Winner.

BILL Hammann with a score of 613, including games of 231, 199 and 213, was the winner in the individual sweepstakes bowling tournament on the Washington alleys last night. J. C. McNeill, 615, was second and Al Wichter, 584, third.

Valger Beats Goodrich.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 11.—Rennie Valger, featherweight, who recently defeated Johnny Kilbane, the title holder, defeated Jimmy Goodrich of New York in a 10-round bout here last night.

New Middleweight Ring Champion

Our new American middleweight ring champion is known to the fight public—or a very small portion of it—as Johnny Wilson, but he was christened Giovanni Francesco Panica in New York City, where he was born.

Panica's right to the title, although gained in a 12-round referee's decision bout of only local interest, at Boston, is practically undisputed. He scored a knockdown and outpointed the champion in eight of the 12 rounds, gaining an even break in two.

Panica is the third man to shock the talent by winning the middleweight title. George Chip astonished all the world when he stopped Frank Klaus (conqueror of Georges Carpentier) twice, just to make sure of his superiority.

Al McCoy gave the fans heart failure when he stopped Chip in one punch during the first round of their no-decision contest.

O'Dowd gained his title as favorite, in his match with McCoy in 1917.

St. Louis Soccer Teams Not Yet Fit to Cope With England's Best

American Standards Fall Short of Britain's, as Shown by Foreign Eleven's That Have Appeared Here—World's Championship in Ten Years, Is Forecast.

By John E. Wray.

ALTHOUGH the United States now boasts a soccer championship eleven composed of American-born players, with an American style of play, a team that won from a foreign-born aggregation using Scotch methods, it is a mistake of the monumental order to assume that we are now ready to cope with England in an international championship, with hope of success.

A match between the champions of Great Britain and the Ben Millers would be about as logical as matching the Municipal baseball leaders with the World's Champion Reds.

The Britons whom the Millers defeated here were foreign-born, it is true; but not all of them had attained prominence as players in the old country. Most of them acquired their soccer proficiency on this side of the water, if we believe their own statements. In the language of the Pilgrims' visit, 15 years ago, and again when the Corinthians came, a few years later.

Some Football Team, Bo. The Pilgrims, although composed in part of amateurs of major league quality, and of several major league professionals of A-1 rating in England, were still supposed to be second-rate as a team. The goalkeeper was a member of the British peerage and the eleven played its games in this country more or less under "jacket" conditions.

Nevertheless the Britons, merely Federation Internationale is healed and the United States Football Association remains in sympathy with the organization at the convention here, this month, it is not unreasonable to expect that a real world's soccer series with each country represented by home-grown teams, will be realized within a few years. If it is, America will finish not worse than second.

Walker. Burns doubled to left. On Welsh's long fly to Jacobson, Burns took third. Gedeon threw out Griffin. NO RUNS.

NINTH INNING. BROWNS—Sisler walked. Williams also walked. On Jacobson's long fly to Welsh, Sisler was doubled trying for third. Welsh to Galloway to Thomas. Severed walked. Kinney threw out Shovlin. NO RUNS.

J. Beckett Stops Wells in Title Go

LONDON, May 11.—Joe Beckett, the English heavyweight boxer, knocked out Bombardier Wells, another British pugilist, in the third round of a match for the heavyweight championship of England last night.

The fight took place at Olympia and an enormous crowd witnessed the contest which was expected to prove a grueling one.

American Women Win Two of Four Matches Abroad

Miss Hollins and Mrs. Vanderbeck Win First Round Golf Contests in Ireland.

NEW CASTLE, County Down, Ireland, May 11.—American women golfers participating in the British Women's Championship tournament here, today, got an even break in the first round of match play.

Mrs. C. H. Vanderbeck of Philadelphia, and Marion Hollins of West Brook, Long Island, defeated their opponents.

Mildred Caverly of Philadelphia, and Rosamond Sherwood of Long Island were eliminated by English entrants.

Mrs. Vanderbeck defeated Miss Ames of Folkestone, 4 to 3; Miss Hollins won from Mrs. C. H. Wason Heath, 3 up; Miss A. C. Mackenzie of Toronto, defeated Miss Caverly, 3 up; and Molly Griffiths won from Miss Sherwood on the fourteenth green.

Miss Sherwood, who injured her foot by stepping on a sharp pointed stake on Sunday, was not expected to play, but made a plucky attempt to participate, using crutches. The handicap proved too great for the American, although her efforts were applauded by the gallery. Miss Sherwood was obviously in pain and unable to swing her clubs throughout the match.

American women golfers have favorably impressed English golfing experts. The opinion prevails, however, that none of the quartet is quite strong enough to win the present contest, in which Miss O'Neil is the outstanding favorite.

The local experts agree that Miss Hollins is the most formidable of the American invaders due to her powerful, well controlled driving, although her short game is not as impressive.

Mrs. C. H. Vanderbeck is considered an excellent player with the woods, but her putting is somewhat erratic.

Miss Sherwood, it was admitted, played under great disadvantages for she was unable to place full weight upon her injured foot, supporting herself with crutches. She was unable to use her wooden club throughout the match. Even under this handicap Miss Sherwood carried the match to the fourteenth green, where she lost to Miss Griffith, 6 up and 8 to play. The injured American's showing was admitted to be exceptionally creditable under circumstances, and regrets were expressed that she could not have played without handicap.

The match between Miss Hollins and Mrs. Cruise was well played and the closeness at times thrilled the gallery. The American was one up at the turn and clinched her victory on the sixteenth green with a three.

The cards follow:

Miss Hollins, 3 4 6 6 2 2 5 5—46
Mrs. Cruise, 3 7 6 5 5 4 6 6—49

In:
Miss Hollins, 4 6 6 6 3 4 3—24—50
Mrs. Cruise, 4 6 7 6 4 3 4—25—55

In the match between Miss Mackenzie and Miss Caverly, the Canadian player proved to be the stronger and more accurate driver, while the Philadelphia was excellent on the greens. Miss Mackenzie was two up at the turn and maintained her lead to the final hole.

Miss Cecil Leitch, present champion and winner of the stroke competition, defeated Miss Joan Alexander, 7 and 6; Miss Harvey, another Canadian entry, won from Miss Stewart French of Cork, 2 and 1.

Miss Marion Alexander, runner-up to Miss Leitch in the stroke competition, and Miss Jackson, Irish champion, were also among those, who qualified for the second round.

JAZZ MUSIC FEATURED ON ORPHEUM PROGRAM

Henry Santrey and the Four Mortons, Fay Courtney and Loney Haskell Are Stars.

Henry Santrey's jazz band and the Four Mortons, headed by the perennial Sam and Kitty, who have been together in vaudeville 39 years, are the leading attractions on the Orpheum bill this week. The Mortons are almost as old as some of the jokes which are spruced by Loney Haskell, who is the star of the program as a "celebrated" character monologue comedian and is funny in spots.

Fay Courtney, who doesn't depend on facial or physical beauty, sings coon songs in that raucous style which distinguishes the Afro-American school of music as interpreted by two-day artists. Francis Yates and Gus Reed are back with their vocal turn in which Reed gives a really fine rendition of that old drinking song, "Down Deep in the Cellar." Percy Oakes and Pamela Delour have a surprising whirlwind dancing act. On the bill also are Gordon's dog and pony circus and Mang and Snyder, strong men and acrobats.

TRANSPORT WITH GEN. PERSHING ABOARD AGROUND AT SAN JUAN

By the Associated Press.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, May 11.—The United States transport North Pacific, which went aground at the harbor here still was hard and fast in the mud yesterday. The sea was calm and all the passengers still were on board. The freight steamer Cornelia was standing by.

The transport, with Gen. Pershing aboard, went aground shortly after dropping her pilot. It was believed the ship fouled a buoy and damaged her propeller. Tugs began an attempt to get the big vessel afloat and as the weather was calm, it was believed she was in no danger.

On board the Northern Pacific is a full list of cabin passengers, including Gen. Pershing's personal staff. Major-General Andrew W. Brewster, Gov. and Mrs. Yager, A. E. B. Stephens, member of Congress from Ohio, and others.

Gen. Pershing took with him 100 pounds of sugar which he obtained at a sugar central at Arecibo.

No Extra Session in Connecticut. HARTFORD, Conn., May 11.—Gov. Marcus Holcomb, replying to the request made by the "Flying Squadron" of suffragists, representing the 48 states, again has declined to call a special session of the Connecticut Legislature to act on the woman suffrage amendment.

An Exception!

It is seldom now that you can buy high-quality articles at moderate prices. White Owl, however, is one of the exceptions to the rule. It is a cigar high in value but low in price.

More than that, the mellow fragrance of White Owl never varies. Its fine aroma comes from the character of its tobacco, carefully selected and cured by experts, who know the true meaning of "ripe, mellow tobacco."

White Owl looks like an aristocrat and smokes like one, too. That's another reason for White Owl popularity.

The standing of White Owl is guaranteed by the great resources and long experience of the General Cigar Co., Inc. If you're looking for an exceptional value, we recommend White Owl.

CLOTHIERS WANT LEVER ACT MADE USELESS

Effect on Anti-Profiteering Measure Causes Support of Peace Resolution.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 11.—The Retail Clothiers' and Furnishers' Association of New York, comprising 1000 of the leading men's shops of the State, is supporting Senator Knox in his effort to make a separate peace with Germany, not so much because peace is desired, but, according to the association's own admission, because it feels that the Lever act, designed to curb profiteering, being a war-time measure, will be rescinded automatically.

On March 31, on the official stationery of the association, a "Memorandum" marked "Important," and "requiring quick action," was sent to every member. It is signed by the secretary, Lawrence T. Boehen, and reads as follows:

"Dear Member: You know, of course, that Senator Knox has introduced a resolution to end the war. I think that we all agree that it is high time we had peace, and this letter is to urge you to write your Senators and Congressmen at once, advocating that the Knox resolution be pushed, with all possible speed.

"If the resolution becomes a law, it is the general opinion that it would naturally end the Lever act, which was a war measure, doing away with the petty annoyances attending this act which have been inflicted upon our tradesmen. The following sentence was underlined in red ink: 'Needless for me to say, you must be careful not to mention anything about the Lever act in sending your telegrams, but rather harp only upon the peace resolution.'

"Very truly yours,
"LAWRENCE T. BOEHEN."
This letter was made public yesterday by Armin W. Riley, chief of the flying squadron of the Department of Justice who earlier in the day had been promoted to the rank of special assistant to the Attorney-General.

"There is no explanation needed from the association as regards this letter, it speaks for itself," Riley commented. "I think in this connection, however, it is significant to note the attitude of Fred Levy, who was, and probably still is, president of the National Association of Retail Clothiers, of which the organization sending out the Knox letter is a State branch.

"Nation-Wide Propaganda. Levy says his organization has raised a very large fund to conduct a nation-wide propaganda campaign to cause the people to believe the prices of retailers are reasonable and to shift the blame for high prices to labor's wages and the high cost of materials.

"He recommended that all retailers get into politics. He stated that they had engaged, or were about to engage, a first-class man to represent them in Washington, a lobbyist in other words, and that they already have retained the best legal talent. We have found that wherever dry goods merchants have been arrested or indicted they have always had the best legal talent, and usually some such organization as that to which Levy refers has represented them.

"I believe that the retailer as a whole is desirous of eliminating the profiteers, but as long as they are represented by men such as Levy, all that we can do is to proceed vigorously against them under the Lever act."

"If the Knox resolution goes through, then, says the Lever act is the only anti-profiteering law we have, there will be no means of proceeding against such people as Levy. The outstanding fact that strikes me is that this great organization is going into politics to stop us from enforcing the law, simply because it hurts them."

Others Support Measure.

Maurice Brill, one of the vice presidents of the Retail Clothiers' and Furnishers' Association of New York, when asked if he cared to make any explanation of the Knox letter, replied:

"No, we have no explanation whatever to make. The letter speaks for itself. We didn't think the Lever act was quite equitable and we want to eliminate it."

Brill volunteered the information he had heard from an official of the Retail Dry Goods Association that the Association also was actively supporting the Knox peace resolution because it would abolish the anti-profiteering law.

SCRAPS FROM WASTE BASKET EVIDENCE IN BOND THEFT CASE

Chicago Police Claim to Have Established Connection Between Prisoner and Arnstein.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 11.—Plying together thousands of scraps of paper from the waste basket of Arthur Eremont, police declared today they had obtained evidence establishing an absolute connection between Eremont and "Nicky" Arnstein, alleged leader in $2,500,000 bond thefts in New York.

Letters and telegrams relating to numerous stock and bond transactions were said by the police to have been found in the scraps from Eremont's waste basket, and some of them were made public.

Eremont, known to Carlos Ferrer, also as Theodore Moore, a Milwaukee bond salesman, were pieced together. One of the letters made public told of an appointment made by Ferrer on Jan. 2 with "an agent of a friend" of Eremont. Police declare this friend was "Nicky" Arnstein.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Own Your Home.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In referring to the much-talked-of plan of the Chamber of Commerce to aid the working man to secure his own home, and in that way to help cut the high cost of living, will someone please explain a few of the following facts:

I refer to the Home and Housing Association, one of whose folders was mailed to me this morning. Being much interested in a plan whereby it appeared that I could at last afford to buy my home, I called at the Chamber of Commerce and was informed that the homes were to cost from $4000 to about $6500 each, according to the number of rooms, etc., and that the cash payment was to be 10 per cent of the total cost.

I am aware of the fact that prices of material and labor have increased since this plan was originated, but have they increased to such an extent as to warrant the association to quote the following high prices for their houses?

6 rooms, lot 22x150, $8964.

5 rooms, lot 25x150, $7885.

A number of other houses were priced accordingly. This, according to their letter, does not even include electric fixtures.

The average working man cannot afford to pay $9000 for a home, even if he has 10 years in which to pay for it, especially in view of the fact that a 10 per cent cash payment is required. You may say that this cash payment is usually required, but I beg to remind you that this plan is supposed to make it easy for the working man to own his home, and it is in this one particular instance that it must be made easy for him if he is to take advantage of the plan as originally outlined by the Chamber of Commerce.

The average working man has a family and cannot decently do with less than five or six rooms, but the prices quoted above are prohibitive. A reasonably small cash payment, a substantial monthly payment (which most of us could and would gladly pay, since it would work to our own good eventually) and moderately priced houses are the principal things to be considered if the plan is to work out as originally advertised.

Apartments for Rent.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

In going around the city during the past week I noticed seven for rent signs in as many apartments.

Is it possible that our people have waked up and refused to stand for the profiteering landlordism of the city?

The summer months is a poor time to enforce demands of further rent increase and a few more "for rent" signs may prove salutary.

LANDLORD'S VICTIM.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Referring to your editorial in to-day's issue under the caption of "Farewell, Mr. Hoover,"

It will be recalled that a few days ago Senator Phelan of California stated that there would be no question as to the outcome in California, because the Democrats had been instructed and the California primary laws permitted them to vote in this primary. They took it upon themselves to nominate Senator Johnson because they knew that he was the outstanding opponent to the league of nations, as they wanted to make that the issue. Their hope is to split the Republican party up and make the nominee of the Republican party a man who has been strongly opposed to the league.

The fact that Mr. Hoover's strength is not limited to any one State, but heavily distributed throughout every part of the country, indicates that a majority of the voters, men and women, want him for President. Every primary thus far has also demonstrated that a comparatively small proportion of the vote has been cast, and that the man having the best machine or organization is the man who invariably wins out. The fact that Mr. Hoover was able to poll approximately 200,000 votes in California against a man who has had a political organization behind him for 12 years, should demonstrate that regardless of organization the sentiment for the Food Administrator all over the country is enormous. The public's attention should also be called to the fact that Senator Johnson had a 300,000 majority in 1916 when Hughes lost the State. Yours truly,

STAFFORD L. MORTON,
Chairman Executive Committee, Hoover Club of St. Louis.

Short Hours for Your Barber.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Everybody wants short hours, but the average man looks at his watch, which says "7:25 o'clock p. m." and rushes into a barber shop. His regular barber is anxious to go home as soon as possible, but is delayed till 8:30 or 9 o'clock. The barber has to be patient and pleasant. His wife and children look for his early home-coming and are often disappointed. Help your good barber to go home early and spend an enjoyable and long evening with his wife and little ones, or sweetheart. It is up to the customers to go to the shop early when they want a hair cut or barber's service. Quit frittering away time on the street.

SWIFTEST OF MEXICAN REVOLUTIONS.

The rapidity of its progress and the apparent friendliness of Carranza are features of the latest Mexican revolution.

Madero's revolution against Diaz began in November, 1910, reaching the stage of organized headway in January, 1911, but it was not until early May that Juarez, key point in Mexican insurrections, was captured, and not until May 25 that Diaz fled from Vera Cruz.

But in this new revolution, of which the world heard nothing until the State of Sonora announced, on April 10, that it had severed relations with the Federal Government, Juarez had been occupied in three weeks and by May 10 Mexico City had been taken and Carranza was a fugitive.

Accustomed as we are to the quick changes of Latin-America and its almost instantaneous shifts in the popular attitude and the allegiance of popular leaders to a fallen dictator, the swift spread of the new conflagration in the sister republic must inspire our amazement. What it took the Madero followers, with provocation of weightiest kind known to human incentives, six months to bring about, the leaders of the latest insurrection have accomplished in four weeks.

Diaz, with the accumulated enmities of 30 years of iron rule and repeated acts of arbitrary violence, actually seems to have had more true friends and supporters than Carranza, who has held the chief office only a fraction of that time and has always professed to desire humane policies and avoidance of Diaz usurpations.

The bare news of the anti-Carranza revolt was sufficient to gain it the adherence of forces in widely separated points in Mexico. Place after place fell, after only a nominal defense, with preposterously few casualties. Probably no revolution in Mexican history has ever gained its objective with such trifling loss of life as the present revolution.

The crabbed, prickly old First Chief, by a wrong-headed obstinacy in trifling matters, at least matters not of major moment, and continual exhibit of a lack of sense of proportion, had gradually alienated his friends in the United States. He had become a trial to us. Did he in the same manner alienate those near to him in Mexico, with cumulative cause for weariness and impatience?

He began with singularly bright prospects. Mexico was tired of disorder. He devoted himself to attractive aims in the education of the densely ignorant masses, division of the land, reform of justice. He became a bore in the end, and reform is a dangerous affliction to place on the mercurial, hot-headed Latin-American people.

The revolution proves that Mexico has not progressed beyond the bullet and bayonet method of changing administrations. Force elects and force rules. The promises of the revolutionary leaders suggest something better in government and in relations with Mexico's neighbors, particularly with her big neighbor. We can only hope that the outcome will be something better than promises.

THE CREATOR OF THE CHAUTAUQUA.

The contributions which J. H. Vincent, Bishop of the M. E. Church, whose death at the age of 88 is just reported, made to the thought and customs and familiar forms of expression of his time are not easily appreciated by those whose experience with current affairs dates back less than half a century.

As a clergyman Dr. Vincent engaged in a large way in Sunday school work and, aided by Lewis Miller, a wealthy resident of Ohio, his plans for a sort of normal institute for Sunday school teachers took shape in 1874. For his first "assembly," as it was called then as well as later, Chautauqua Lake, in Western New York, was selected. Under his idea, summer recreation and profitable instruction were to be combined and the dates chosen for the first assembly were from Aug. 4 to Aug. 18, 1874.

The innovation, an outgrowth in part of the old Methodist camp meetings, had an instantaneous success. Liberally educated himself, Dr. Vincent had a great sympathy for those whose early educational advantages had been limited and the time devoted to the assembly was extended to six weeks and courses had a rapid expansion, to include virtually all branches of learning. A further growth of the idea came with the arrangement of Chautauqua, or Bay View, courses of winter reading, supplementing the instruction given in summer. Of course, the benefits of the plan could not be confined to any one locality. Hundreds of other "assemblies," with improvised shelter against inclement weather, were established at slightly spots throughout the United States and Canada. Music is always a leading feature at each.

"Chautauqua" and "Chautauquan," originally geographical terms, became words with a very definite meaning and wide application not only in our own, but in other languages. A great literature in textbooks and periodicals came into being with the idea. One of our most distinctive national institutions was created. When we are told that a statesman is in or out of a job, a returned traveler from foreign parts or a specialist in some branch of useful endeavor has taken himself to the Chautauqua circuit, we know just the kind of activity that is implied.

Tracing the history of the idea a little farther, we

A FALSE BOND CONCLUSION.

In a letter to the Post-Dispatch Walter Clifford of 2545 A St. Louis avenue writes that he has changed his mind with regard to the bond issue, because he has lost confidence in the press. The reason given for his loss of confidence and his consequent conclusion that the press is the subsidized and subservient agent of certain powerful interests and business organizations, which are trying to put over something on the people of St. Louis, is the refusal of the newspapers to publish the fact that the Tenth Ward Improvement Association had voted to oppose the bonds. He accuses the press of suppression of news under orders.

Mr. Clifford is unfortunate in his selection of a reason for his loss of confidence in the press and his consequent conclusion that the bonds embody a scheme of certain interests and organizations to exploit St. Louis. On Feb. 16, under the heading,

TENTH WARD ASSOCIATION OPPOSES MUNICIPAL BONDS Says Construction Costs and Taxes Are Too High at Present.

The Post-Dispatch printed a news report, of which the following is a part:

Opposition to the adoption at this time of the $24,000,000 improvement bond issue proposed by the city government, was expressed yesterday by the Tenth Ward Improvement Association on the ground that the cost of building materials is too high, the cost of money is too high and because State and city taxes recently have been increased and individuals are being called upon to pay a high Federal income tax.

A further reason is that the method adopted for the bond issue of opening the free bridge for freight traffic will not, in the opinion of the association, permit freight to move over the bridge upon payment of one freight charge, by reason of failure to provide for an approach on the Illinois side.

Since Mr. Clifford's conclusion is based upon false premises, the logical result should be a reversal of his conclusion. We hope that Mr. Clifford and others who, like him, have been led astray by false statements will see their error in time to vote for the bonds today. How anyone can see in an open, well-guarded bond issue for the benefit of St. Louis as a whole, a deep, dark conspiracy of business interests to put something over on the people is beyond our comprehension. All that any big business interests can get out of the bonds is a share in the general benefits to the city and a proportionate share in the cost of the improvements. The biggest part of the costs will be paid by the members of the business organizations which are supporting the bonds. They realize that it is good business for St. Louis to make the improvements and pay for them through a bond issue.

The corset company which declared a 200-per-cent stock dividend did not have much trouble making both ends meet.

EDWARD DEVOT.

In the death of Edward Devoy St. Louis lost one of its best citizens. The quality of his citizenship was not expressed in the prominence of public office or in conspicuous leadership, although he served his city honorably during his early manhood in places of honor and trust, but in modest, unassuming, efficient service for his fellow men. He sought neither wealth nor power, but useful work, in which his leadership was manifest to all his associates.

All the spare time of his later years was given to practical philanthropy, not the mere giving of money, but the giving of heart and soul and the labor of mind and body. As head of the Associated Catholic Charities and of the St. Vincent de Paul Society, he combined honesty and efficiency of management with sympathetic kindness, the charity of the heart. As a member from the beginning, and later chairman until his death, of the Executive Committee of the Post-Dispatch Christmas Festival, Mr. Devoy contributed wise counsel and leadership and enthusiastic effort to the direction and actual work of that annual offering of hospitality and good cheer for those in the city who have to those who have not. His counsel and influence were always for the kindest and most generous interpretation of the ways and means of making Christmas day a joyous occasion for the thousands of children and destitute persons who otherwise would have been desolate. He regarded service of this kind not as labor, but as a privilege and a joy. He had a fine quality of sympathetic tolerance for all kinds and conditions of men.

The poor call him blessed and his associates, who knew his fidelity and integrity, his great heart and sound judgment, mourn his taking off as an irreparable loss.

In Mexico it is a short life and apparently a lone too merry one for the political leader.

HAVE you a private stock of liquor?
I had one.
It was very small.
I haven't it now.
I exchanged it for sleep.
I invited some friends in one evening, recently, got out the various little brown jugs and bottles I had hidden about the house, and said this:

Sweet friends and sundry:
I give you hail and bid you welcome.
Here is my private stock of booze.
I want you to drink it.
I want to be rid of it, and I will tell you why:

Friends, I can't sleep with this booze on the premises.
Every time I hear a strange sound about the place at night I say, There goes my booze!
Since Jan. 18 I have lost 22 pounds.
I am nervous and irritable.
I need sleep undisturbed by the fear that someone will steal my private stock.

So, friends, eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow we die.

Don't feel that you are depriving me of anything.

As a matter of fact, you are giving me rest. I need it.

I want to quit prowling about the house at all hours of the morning trailing a big Colt's revolver.

I want to quit suspecting everybody inside my house of having accomplices outside.

You have heard of Lo the poor Indian, who hears God in the wind.

He has nothing on me.
I hear thieves in every little sound of the night.

A mere mouse seeking cheese is to my tortured imagination no less than the celebrated 40 thieves.

Let a cricket chirp somewhere in the house and I am the prey of more nightmares than Macbeth.

So, friends,
You will drink all of it, won't you?
You will make restful for me the hideous night.
I thank you.
You are indeed friends.

One of our readers let a newsboy in Paducah sell him an early edition of the Sunday paper without the news of the derby or the Saturday baseball scores in it, with the result that he has turned in his license as a sign hunter, consigned the apostrophe to mere decorative uses and gone over to the Globe-Democrat, in which he found both the news of the derby and the Saturday scores. We are mighty sorry, but we can buy a home edition of the daily in front of the office at 6 o'clock in the evening if we let the newsboy sell it to us. Like all other merchants, newsboys like to get rid of their old stock; and eternal vigilance is the price of fresh news as well as liberty. Our reader will be back, we imagine. Anyway, we are going to keep his license polished; and we wish we could lay hand upon that newsboy.

The MIRROR OF PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce with the latest comment by the leading publicists, newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

HOUSING PROBLEM VERY SERIOUS.

From the Nation's Business.

WE have been writing from time to time of housing conditions. As a matter of fact, the subject has long since passed the theoretical stages, the state of discussion in general terms. There is no more vital topic before us, nor one that calls for a more immediate practical solution. Our cities have grown in population with tremendous strides, while the building of places where people may live has been at a standstill. The result is a constant advancement in rental with equally constant inability on the part of hundreds to meet these advances. The owner of property governed by the demand and rents his space to the highest bidder. The tenant who for years has met his obligations, who has remained in spite of the offer of other agents of newer and better quarters at a like or even a less rental, receives no more consideration than the tenant of yesterday. Pay the advance or get out is the answer. This condition has ceased to be one of merely economic business. In many cases it has and will continue to create a state bordering on panic. Thousands who are employed in our cities whose incomes are fixed are unable to meet the competition of those who have made money by the war, and they are confronted with the fate of those who have been driven from their homes by a marching horde of conquerors.

SELF-DETERMINATION.

From the Motion (Ill.) Daily Dispatch.

IT is said that the British are slow to understand a joke, but sometimes they do a little better. The joke is generally looking to some tangible return. In view of the action of the United States Senate recently in passing a resolution in favor of self-determination for Ireland, a member of the House of Commons yesterday inquired if it would not be well, "as a mark of respect to the American Senate," for the House of Commons to "follow the precedent set by the Senate by moving a resolution in support of the Philippine demand for self-determination" by the 10,500,000 people on those islands. Democrats in this country have been contending for a long time that we should cut the Philippines loose, so perhaps the administration would welcome such a resolution. After that there could be a tug-of-war between England and Japan as to which should take a "mandate" for the islands.

THE EIGHTEENTH AMENDMENT.

CHARLES K. BURDICK in the New Republic.

THE argument against the transfer to the Federal Government by constitutional amendment of the powers originally reserved to the states is the most fundamental ground of the attack leveled at the eighteenth amendment. But the argument based upon its character as legislation also deserves serious attention. Many persons who disapprove of that amendment in its present form would support it if it came Congress the power to control or abolish the manufacture, sale and transportation of intoxicating liquors. Even the legislation in the form of an amendment is declared constitutional, these persons entirely disapprove of the policy of adopting amendments which have the force and effect of legislation. The grounds of this disapproval are obvious. When power has been granted to Congress that body will in the exercise of such power be reasonably responsive to the public will; and if Congress be legislated under that power, such legislation can be repealed by a majority vote of that body in response to popular demand. But if an amendment instead of giving certain new powers to the Government, directly legislates as to the rights and duties of individuals, such legislation can only be repealed in the same way in which it was enacted—by constitutional amendment.

he struggled a moment against the lure of a sympathy in the man's dark eyes, then the desire to talk about this buried secret of his broke through—"you see, I cared for her. After I found I was maimed I couldn't risk—I couldn't let her—I think maybe she cared a little for me." His words trailed off. "You see, sir."

"I see," answered De Brevil. "But you are mistaken."

"Mistaken?"

"The women of Jacqueline's stock are not in the custom of failing the men they love because of being heroes," stated De Brevil with set mouth.

The boy looked at him, astonished. Then: "Jacqueline? Did I say her name, Mr. de Brevil?"

De Brevil was suddenly confused.

"By the way," he spoke hastily, "am I permitted to ask the family name of M. le Comte, the old officer, and his young niece, your friends?"

Again the boy laughed. "Why, didn't I tell you that? Why," and he suddenly shouted big, young laughter, "that was the whole point. That was the reason I moved heaven and earth till I got a letter to you from Mr. Morgan. The name—I couldn't get away from the feeling that it was lucky for me. They were so wonderful to me—Comte De Brevil—the chateau—Mlle. De Brevil. But how the dickens did you know her name was Jacqueline, Mr. de Brevil? I'm certain I didn't say that. It's not possible—by some miracle—you're connected!"

De Brevil smiled. "Mr. Duke," he said, "first I wish to call attention to the fact that your future with the De Brevil Turbine Engine Works was arranged before I had heard this most interesting tale of adventure with some manner of De Brevis in France. Then, my son," he flung at the boy in a gay French burst of enthusiasm, "I have the idea that this is one of my lucky days. I wish to make a fete in its honor. Tonight, if you are not engaged, I will drive you out to dine with—my family, at my home. The Silences. There you will meet a person who will be charmed to give you late news of Mlle. Jacqueline de Brevil, whose name I have the happiness to know well. And tomorrow, please God, I shall get a few moments free from this rising generation and arrange my plans for the development of the water power of the upper Rhine."

Wanted to Go Slow.

The parents of little Tommy were struggling nobly to induce the youngster to repeat the letter "A." New Tommy steadfastly refused to pronounce the first letter of the alphabet, and after many vain efforts, the father retired from the fight discouraged. Mother, however, continued and took the little one on her lap and pleaded with him very earnestly.

"Tommy, why won't you learn to say 'A'?" she asked.

"Because, mother," explained Tommy, "just as soon as I say 'A' daddy will want me to say 'B.'"

Knew All About Ruth.

Ira Andrews, the newly elected City Clerk of Terre Haute, is asked in Sunday school work. Last Sunday he advised the children of his class that the morning study would be about Ruth, referring, of course, to the gleaner.

"Now," said Andrews, after introducing the subject, "who can tell me anything about Ruth?"

"Up went a little hand in the rear of the class."

"Well, Willie," asked the teacher, "what do you know about Ruth?"

"He made 29 home runs last season," was the answer.—Indianapolis News.

Loss Figured in Pounds.

"Well, Brown, how ill you look! What's the matter?"

"Oh, nothing much; losing weight, that's all. Lost 139 pounds of flesh in one day."

"Impossible!"

"Fact, I assure you. My wife has eloped with the next-door neighbor!"

—The Doctor.

Not Surprising.

"I think the picture lacks atmosphere," said the kindly critic.

"Fact is," explained the artist, "I had a hard time raising the wind while I was painting it."—Boston Transcript.

Had a Horse's Job.

A prosperous grocer in a certain town had occasion recently to engage a new errand-boy. Trade was very brisk, and the lad had a great deal of work to do in delivering parcels in different parts of the town.

"Well, George, how did you get on Saturday?" asked the grocer on Monday morning.

"Oh, fine," replied the boy, "but I'll be leavin' at the end of the week."

"Why, what's up now?" queried his boss. "Are the wages not high enough?"

"I'm not findin' fault with the pay," replied the boy, "but the fact is, I'm doing a horse out of a job here."—London Tid-Bits.

Realistic Picture.

The critic seemed struck with the picture. "This snow storm painting is very fine, indeed," he said to the artist. "It almost makes me feel cold to look at it."

"Yes, it must be realistic," admitted the other. "A fellow got into my studio one day in my absence, looked at the picture, and unconsciously put my fur overcoat on before he went out."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

CONSERVATION.

The Smiths, as a mode of conserving their means, are dressing the family, the children and all, in five-dollar suits that are built of blue jeans. And now they'll continue the custom till fall.

"We've got to cut down," declares Smith with a groan. "The cost of existence is quite beyond reach. This season we'll need to conserve every bone. For theater tickets cost five dollars each."

The Joneses are saving on mutton and beef. They've found they can live on short rations of meat. Their butcher, they say, is a price-boosting thief. But nevertheless human beings must eat.

"These prices are fearful," says Jones, with a sigh. "The profiteer grabbers are going too far. We MUST save our money, for gas is so high. And we've got a terrible hog of a car."

The Browns have removed to a half-portion flat. They had to cut down on the annual rent. With three to a room they are crowded as that. But still they aver they are wholly content.

"It isn't as big as it might be," says Brown. "But we thought it was best to live cheap for a spell. We will need a big and when we move out of town. To spend the hot months in a high-priced hotel."

The Robinsons' kids have been taken from school. They went to a fancy one, somewhere up State. For Robinson always has made it a rule. To finish the year with a well-balanced slate. "It saves a few hundred," says Robinson pere. "And this year I certainly cannot get short. I need all the coin I can possibly spare. For whisky is costing me thirty a quart."
